21. Need for the Empowerment of Rural Woman in India

Prin. Dr. Madhura Kalamkar

HVPS College of Law.

Abstract

Since ancient period, Indian Women lives in a very derogatory state in the rural areas. The Indian Women are deprived of basic fundamental rights entrusted to them by the Constitution of India. Due to lack of legal awareness among the Indian rural women, they are compelling to live life of underprivileged. The Indian Legal system provided comprehensive legislative structure for the upliftment and betterment of women in rural areas. The Indian Judiciary plays pioneering role in formulation of feminist jurisprudence. The role of Media should be very active and vibrant in the process of empowerment of the women in the Rural India.

The Government should take appropriate steps towards the enhancement program of the Indian Rural women. NGO,s should be given powers to take positive and active involvement in the process of all round development of rural women.

Key word: Fundamental Rights, Legal awareness, Social Justice, Empowerment of Women

Introduction

In Rural areas of India , women are like a free labour who are struggling to complete her household duties from dawn to dusk and are sincere in her job but her real worth could have been realized. She is not even respected nor appreciated for the work done by her towards the family. Although Gender equality is a right but Indian women always facing challenges from economic crisis and lack of health care, to climate change, violence against women and escalating conflicts.

Women are not only more affected by these problems, but also possess ideas and leadership to solve them. The gender discrimination still holding too many women back, holds our world back too. ¹
